

MARCH IS WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

OAR WOMEN IN LEADERSHIP

Panel Discussion

In honor of Women's History Month, we recognize the accomplishments of our OAR women leaders from diverse backgrounds. Please join us in a webinar on Tuesday, March 28, from 2:00 pm - 3:30 pm EST.

<https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/6993642001746282755>

Katy Stewart, EEO/Diversity Advisory Committee Chair, will serve as the moderator.

Panelists

Noha Gaber

Noha Gaber is the OAR Chief of Staff. She joined NOAA in 2016 after an 11 year career at EPA where she served as a change agent and demonstrated leadership in catalyzing, developing and managing innovative initiatives at an enterprise-wide scale. Noha is the founder and former Chief Steward (2006-2011) of the EPA Emerging Leaders Network. She received her Bachelors and Doctoral degrees in Environmental Engineering from the University of Southampton in England.

Jennifer Mahoney

Jennifer Mahoney is the Deputy Director of the ESRL Global Systems Division. She has a Master's degree in Atmospheric Science from Colorado State University. Before becoming the Deputy Director, Jennifer worked as a researcher in the areas of atmospheric science for aviation and winter weather, impact-based verification and assessment, and decision support strategies for forecast systems. In 2017, she was the NOAA Research Employee of the Year for her leadership.

Dr. LaToya Myles

Dr. LaToya Myles is the Deputy Director of ARL/ATDD in Oak Ridge, TN. She coordinates and supports research and development programs. She also conducts scientific studies to improve understanding of the emission, transformation, transport, and fate of atmospheric nitrogen. The Mississippi native is a magna cum laude graduate of Alcorn State University with a B.S. in Chemistry and a B.S. in Biology and has a Ph.D. in Environmental Sciences from Florida A&M University.

Catalina Martinez

Catalina Martinez is the Regional Program Manager for the Office of Ocean Exploration and Research. She began her ocean science career with NOAA in 2002 as a John A. Knauss Marine Policy Sea Grant Fellow. Most recently, Ms. Martinez was awarded the 2016 NOAA OAR EEO/Diversity Award for Exemplary Service for dedication to improving the representation of women and minorities in STEM.

Shirley Murillo

Shirley Murillo is a Research Meteorologist for NOAA's Hurricane Research Division at AOML. She leads the Observing System Simulation Experiment science team. Shirley also devotes her time to improving educational outreach and promoting science education. In 2012, she received the AMS Charles E. Anderson Award. Shirley received her B.S. degree from Florida State University in Meteorology and her M.S. degree in Meteorology from the University of Hawaii at Manoa.

